(CAD$104,167)

Completed Grants

Principal Investigator

Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Systems for Action (Grant Number 74942)

(12/1/2017-06/30/19)

Developing a New Terminology for Funding Social Services

To study the feasibility of developing billing systems for reimbursing providers for social and health services in one system. ($100,000)

Principal Investigator

Columbia University, Department of Health Policy and Management, Faculty Research Grant
(7/1/2016-6/30/2019)

The Use and Effectiveness of Fee for Service Reimbursement in Cross-National Perspective

(with Michael Gusmano, Rutgers University; Lawrence D. Brown, Columbia University; Victor Rodwin, NYU)

We are researching how prices for physician services are determined and evaluate the advantages and disadvantages of different payment methods. We are identifying strategies countries use to balance cost, utilization and expenditure, with a view to recommending models that might potentially be suitable for use in the United States.

Principal Investigator

National Institute of Healthcare Management (2/16-7/17)

Evaluation of Affordable Care Act Policies to Encourage Accurate Prices for Medicare Services

The project explored how policies enacted as part of the ACA have affected the process for updating Medicare physician fees and to estimate the impact on Medicare expenditure.
($44,000)

Principal Investigator

Robert Wood Johnson Foundation

(Investigator Awards in Health Policy Research Program) (4/2010-9/2014)

The Politics of Relative Values: Physicians and Medicare Fees

To understand the role of physician interest groups in the design and implementation of Medicare physician payment policy since 1989, especially the American Medical Association's Relative Value Update Committee (RUC). ($334,830)

Faculty Core

Mainstreaming Public Health in the Bloomberg Administration: A Model for reform?

(PI Isett: 8/1/2010-9/1/2011, PI for Columbia University Subcontract)

Changing public health policy is challenging, and yet in some cases large-scale policy changes are possible. This project analyzed why and how New York City successfully implemented public health reform.

Co-Investigator

Robert Wood Johnson Foundation

(2008-2010)

Evaluation of reforms to cover all children in the states of Illinois, Pennsylvania and Washington

(PI Escarce and Gresenz)

The evaluation used mixed methods to address three key policy dimensions related to the access reforms directed at children's health insurance: affordability, coverage, and sustainability. This project involved fieldwork and interviews with policymakers and stakeholders in three states.

2009 and earlier

Principal Investigator

Ministry of Health, Bermuda

(2008-9)

International Financing Models for Bermuda's Future Care Program

(Subcontract with Kurrion Shares of Bermuda/ Ministry of Health, Bermuda)
